

International Partnerships With Impact In Science And Higher Education

Poster session with live presentations and discussion at the Tsukuba Conference, Japan/online

Live session: September 24th 22:00 UTC (Japan: 25/09, 7am JST)

Shaping Horizons: a science diplomacy framework for sustainable innovation. Matias Acosta, UN Development Programme | Centre for Latin American Studies, University of Cambridge, UK

Post-COVID international scientific cooperation – Perspectives from the Global South. Almas Taj Awan, scientific researcher, science communicator and entrepreneur, Brazil | GYA

Central Asia University Partnerships Program (UniCEN). Adrian Erlinger, American Councils for International Education, USA

Science diplomacy through Biology education. Mohammed Mostajo-Radji, University of California Santa Cruz Genomics Institute, USA | GYA

Mitigating losses: How scientific organisations can help address the impact of COVID-19 on early career researchers. Andrea Molnar, Swinburne University of Technology, Australia | GYA

Role of science diplomacy in regulation of new breeding technologies. Muhammad Adeel, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Pakistan | WA State Agriculture Biotechnology Center, Australia

Supporting Latin American early career researchers on the quest for sustainable development in the region. Sandra Lopez-Verges, Gorgas Memorial Research Institute for Health Studies, Panama | GYA

Science (pan)diplomacy: Globalising science diplomacy and vice versa. Pradeep Kumar, Wits University, South Africa | GYA

Creating new opportunities for genomics in Uzbekistan. Paulina Carmona-Mora, University of California-Davis, USA | GYA

Session organizer and moderator: Paulina Carmona-Mora

GLOBAL YOUNG
ACADEMY

Registration (Free)

<http://www.tsukuba-conference.com/>

Join from the meeting link

<https://tsukuba-conference.webex.com/tsukuba-conference/j.php?MTID=me269b4ae3401ce5cc509c03b41c6acf7>

Webex Meeting number: 2511 853 9871

Meeting password: pyKxhTHr253